The District of Chetwynd is closely monitoring the COVID-19 (Coronavirus) situation in British Columbia. The District's top priority is the health and safety of the public and District employees.

The District of Chetwynd continues to take its instruction from the Province, and to work with partners including Northern Health to proactively deal with COVID-19. The BC Centre for Disease Control has said the risk of transmission in BC remains low but any District response will be based upon advice from the Province of BC and Northern Health.

What the District of Chetwynd is doing

- All District events, plans and programs are being reviewed
- All events with 50 people or more are postponed, as directed by the Provincial Health Officer
- Cleaning protocols at all District of Chetwynd facilities are being strengthened and enhanced
- Signage has been posted at all facilities reminding residents and visitors to kindly not enter the facility if they are feeling sick
- District of Chetwynd business continuity plans have been implemented to ensure Chetwynd residents have access to essential services including water, sewer, and fire protection

Thank you to those who have phoned in to volunteer your services to seniors or other vulnerable persons; should the need arise, we will call you. At this time, we are not aware of any cases of COVID-19 in the community but we are preparing just in case. We will communicate regularly with you during this COVID-19 situation, and thank you for your cooperation.

Yours sincerely

Allen Courtoreille
Mayor
